CHÂTEAU TOUR BAYARD

This family estate in one of the Saint-Emilion satellite appellations belongs to the Elodie Richard-Milhade's husband, the son of Xavier Milhade. Julien Richard works closely with the family to make wines that perfectly match the quality required by the family distribution company.

The 15 hectares of Montagne Saint-Emilion and 10 hectares of Puisseguin Saint-Emilion are planted on magnificent clay-and-limestone slopes. Julien took over from his mother Fanny in 2012 and works day by day to protect the estate's biodiversity using the know-how that he inherited from his grandfather Angelo Nicoletti. Since 1956, the successive generations have made every effort to give prominence to "terroir", from vine to bottle. A terroir that makes the difference, that is both generous and demanding, from which there's always something to learn and which, with every vintage, rekindles the desire to start again!

Elodie and Julien are constantly enthralled by the beauty of the surrounding countryside. Since 2015 they have been converting the main building in which 2 generations of the family have already lived so that they can move in with their two children.
